

Leganto as part of a unified solution

Jessie Ransom, Lead Product Manager

What is Leganto

Leganto is a course materials solution which automatically links course materials with the library collection, connecting library resources, services and workflows to the learning management system (LMS).

Establish the library as a teaching and learning partner

- Reduce students' course materials costs by making use of library collections, librarians' expertise, and library services in support of courses
- Streamline the workflows to support course materials, leveraging the Alma platform
- Take advantage of actionable insights to demonstrate library value

Highlight the library's value

“People had sort of forgotten about the library in the teaching & learning space. Leganto reminds people that the library does have a role to play, and that we’re able to provide access to all course resource needs to support classes”

Ryan Buller, Access Services Librarian at the University of Denver

Demo

The screenshot displays the Ex Libris LTI interface on a laptop. The top navigation bar shows the course path: 'EDU 103 > Principles of Education'. Below this, the course title 'Principles of Education' is displayed along with metadata: 'Published', 'EDU 103 (2021-22)', 'Master', and 'More info'. A search bar and a '+ Add' button are visible. The main content area is titled 'Section 1: History and Theories (Citation: 14, Pages: 52)' and contains a list of course materials. The left sidebar contains navigation options: Home, Announcements, Assignments, Discussions, Course Materials, Grades, People, Pages, Files, Syllabus, Outcomes, Quizzes, Modules, BigBlueButton, Collaborations, and Submissions. The course materials list includes:
