Institution Public research university

Location United Kingdom

Goals

- Prepare course materials before the term begins
- Make progress on his research

Frustrations

- Not very tech savvy
- Has to re-familiarize himself with the tool each time he uses it because he revisits the reading list once a year

Key Tasks

- A few weeks before the term begins:
 - Make a copy of last year's reading list
 - Fix broken links and update resources, if needed
- During the term:
 - Periodically add resources to the reading list
- Save interesting articles in My Collection throughout the academic year

Background

Oliver revisits the course reading list once a year, in the fall. Each year, he needs to re-familiarize himself with Leganto.

Idea Exchange

Leganto

Your feedback matters to us. Help us improve Leganto by telling us what you'd like to see using the mes below. You can also support something already posted.

We would love to be able to respond to every idea that is submitted, but this is not feasible. We are, how committed to responding to the most popular ideas—those that have received the most points.

For more information please review our FAQ and guidelines.

How can we improve Leganto?

Vertically align the "view online" button

Hello. We are migrating from Talis to Leganto.

In Talis, our students can see the "View Online" button in the same place as they scroll through the list. See the first image. Students primarily access their reading list content electronically (e.g. chapters) rather than finding a print copy on the shelves.

In Leganto however, the "View Online" button comes after the print holding locations in the citation, means that as the user scrolls through the list, the "View Online" location in the window travels from top to side, offering a poor UX for reading lists users wanting to read electronic content. (see the second attached image)

HTML in list notes and list and sections' description fields

In some cases, an instructor needs to provide extra information to their student by referring to an external website.

Use case: "All the citations in this section cannot be booked through the library but can be found in the compendium. More information here."

It would be very useful to use HTML in the list notes, or in the description field of the list or sections. Both so instructors can use links, but also to make the information more visible if it comes after a long list of citations (in the case of a list note).

Search scope of library search in Leganto

The Search scope that was selected when I cleared the search term in Library Search by pressing x will return to the initial state. We want the Search scope once selected to be retained.

Hide instructors ability to restrict access to reading lists based on time intervals

In Leganto, instructors have a lot of opportunities to restrict access to the reading list by setting specific time intervals where resources are visible. This includes separate settings for entire reading lists, sections, citations and uploaded material. We have received reports from our libraries that these functions are sometimes used incorrectly by the instructors. The instructors often do not grasp all the consequences of using these features and end up causing these resources to become unavailable at inopportune times and not knowing why. For instance, an instructor might set the reading list to be visible from August 10th – December 20th not realizing that students might want to access the material

Make it easier to edit templates within Leganto

Once a template has been created it is not possible to update or edit it without saving it as a new template. It also means that other lists using the original template aren't updated and have to be updated manually. We would like the option to edit templates more easily and for any changes to be saved to all reading lists using that template.

My Collection enhancements

Our instructors are big fans of My Collection but they are missing features that are available for lists:

- 1) Sections or folders. Having tags is nice but in no way the same thing
- 2) Drag & Drop citations to re-order the list. Goes together with 1) - at the moment there is no way to bring structure to My Collection which makes it cluttered and takes the joy out of working with it.
- 3) Separate the menu options into "Suggest item for a list" and "Add item to a list" so that there is a clear distinction between adding something to your own list vs. suggesting it for someone else's list.
- 4) Make the private note visible in the list view of My Collection.
- 5) Print. This is possible for lists but for My Collection you have to export the citations before you can print them.
- 6) Edit item from list view instead of having to open it in full view.

The image shows a screenshot of a library search interface. On the left, a sidebar titled "Principles of Education" lists various sections and items, including "Nursing diagnosis", "Sport Psychology", "Short Cuts and E", "Introduction to S", "Economic develop", and "Philosophy in edu". The main area displays a "Search Library" window with a search bar containing "Intro" and a search button. Below the search bar, there are options to "Include records without full-text access" and an "Advanced search" link. The search results show 13,718,888 results. The first few results are:

Leganto new user experience

- Make a distinction between instructors' and students' experience
- Focus on the experience in the learning management system (LMS)
- Screen resolution – optimize the instructor view to laptop screen size
- Adapt to the user context - present the most relevant information to the current user's workflow
- High software standards and better performance- security, accessibility, and performance

Easy transition

Time to prepare:

The new UI will be released in September 2023

Gradual deployment:

Both versions will coexist for a year

- Test the new UI while the previous UI still exists
- Move to the new UI during academic break

Communication

Early updates to the community in emails and webinars

Training:

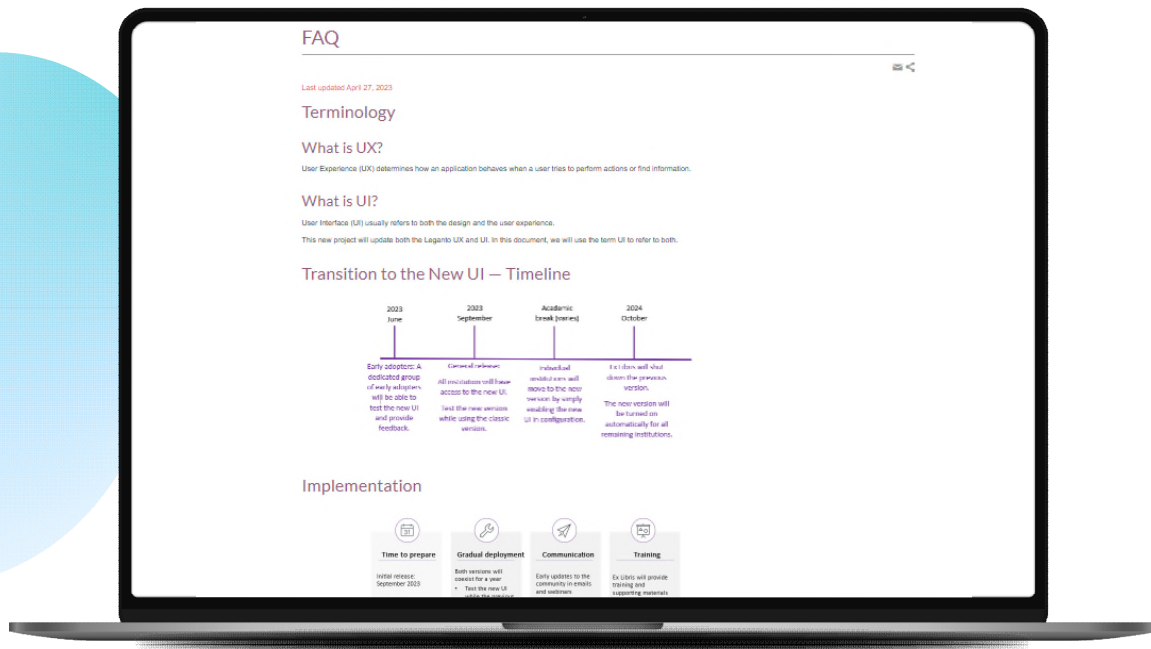

Ex Libris will provide training and supporting materials for the new UI
